

Thomson Tax & Accounting's premier Code-organized tax reporter – a higher standard in Code-based research

- Comprehensive coverage of federal income, estate, gift and excise taxes
- 40% more annotations of cases and rulings, full-text reprints of cases, and headnotes than any other tax reporter
- Annotations – organized by both Code section and legal issue – cite RIA's American Federal Tax Reports and other case reporters
- Smart paragraph numbering system (based on Code section numbers) allows researchers to identify the Code section from the paragraph number located in a hit list, the table of contents, or the topic index
- RIA's complete compilation of the Internal Revenue Code, Treasury Regulations and selected Committee Reports
- Additional IRS practice aids: Market Segment Understandings (MSUs), Market Segment Specialization Program Guide (MSSPs), Industry Specialization Papers (ISPs) and AICPA Ethical Materials
- Federal Tax Weekly Alert newsletter provides commentary and reports on all significant federal tax developments

In addition to the features listed above, the recently enhanced U.S. Tax Reporter on Checkpoint® includes the following:

- A Table of Contents that allows you to search the USTR like a book
- Compare/t functionality on the Web that allow you to link directly from a federal provision to coverage of similar provisions in relevant states
- Federal Tax forms on the Web
- Extensive cross-referencing and linking – ready access to explanations, annotations and source materials
- Go-to-Button – link directly to the code section and corresponding analysis and authority for that code section
- New search template and keyword search – research flexibility by citation, case name, and much more
- Code subsection throughout your research
